Everything but the oink!

Every part of a pig can be used—either as delicious, nutritious pork or helping to create 180+ different products! Here are a few:

Crayons: fatty acids help to harden them

Marshmallows: gelatin acts as a thickener

Dog treats: snouts are baked or smoked

Bone china: bones make dishes more durable

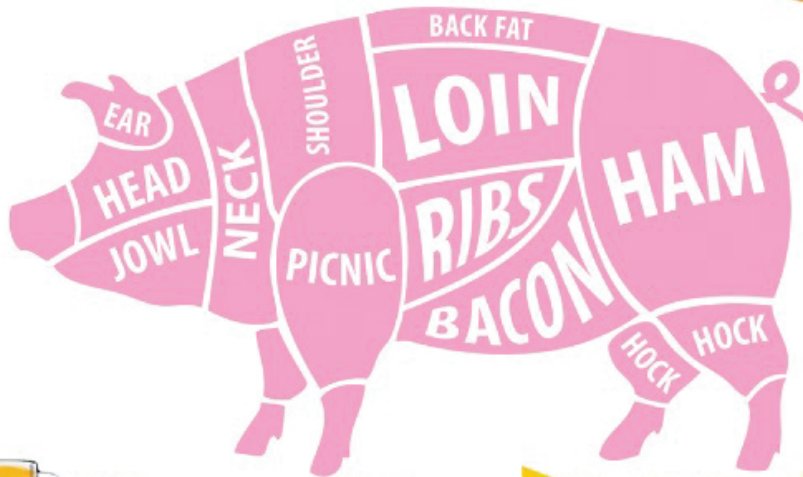

Heart valves: used in transplants for humans

Chewing gum: stearic acid used as a softener

Baked goods: amylase used to activate yeast

Soap: fatty acids help it harden

Beer: gelatin makes the drink clear

Fabric softener: fatty acids give it colour

Toothpaste: glycerin adds texture

Cheese: pepsin is used to coagulate it

Fertilizer: from manure, blood, or bone meal

Insulin: pig insulin helps diabetics

Electricity: manure is used as fuel

Deodorant: stearic acid is used as a stabilizer
